Justice to review redistricting plan

By BREARD SNELLINGS

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors Monday adopted a redistricting plan recommended by Gulf Regional Planning Commission.

The plan will be sent on to the U.S. Dept. of Justice for approval.

Adoption of the plan followed a public hearing in which both the commission plan and an alternate plan presented by the Hancock Action League were discussed.

After hearing from Jeff Taylor of the planning commission and Father Francis Theriault, representing HAL, supervisor James Travira of District 5 moved the board accept the commission plan. Supervisor Roger Dale Ladner of District 3 seconded the motion, and it passed unanimously.

The plan must be approved by the Justice Department before the August general election, or the election could be declared technically invalid.

The largest percentage of black population in the new plan is in District 4 (24.3 percent). This compares to only 10.4 percent black in the present districting plan.

On the other hand, the new plan calls for only 5.1 percent black population in District 5, compared to 17.6 percent in the present system.

The plan calls for only .01 percent black population in District 3, and 6.2 percent in District 1, with 13.6 percent in District 2.

The HAL plan had called for 25.1 percent black population in District 5 and 3.4 percent in District 4, reversing the figures in the commission plan.

Also, the HAL plan placed the entire county beachfront in Districts 1 and 3, while the commission has beachfront

Council ends police probe, accepts report in split vote

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

In a split vote the Bay St. Louis City Council Tuesday night accepted a two-page report which marked conclusion of a 13-month council investigation into the City Police Department.

Councilmen James Thrifley and Gene Taylor both said they opposed closing the probe and acceptance of the report based on a paragraph which states accusations of wrongdoing against the department are unfounded and untrue.

In Jan. 1982 the Hancock County Grand Jury suggested the council investigate the department. The council initiated the probe at a Feb. 2, 1982 meeting.

The report was made public by the council after numerous requests from Bay citizens.

Councilmen Wilmer Seymour and Shelton Seuzeneau voted in favor of the report and Harry Farve, council president, cast the tie-breaking vote both in accepting the report and closing the investigation.

Taylor, regarding the ninth paragraph, stated, "The allegations made against two officers were found to be true and they are no longer with us (the department)."

Thrifley said he had not reviewed the finalized report and just after the meeting remarked he also objected on the same basis.

Clermont woman charged

Jogger hospitalized after Waveland mishap

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

A Waveland woman is hospitalized after being struck by an automobile in that city Tuesday afternoon.

Chief Donald Dorn of the Waveland Police Department Wednesday reported Cynthia Collins, 23, of 113 Baker St. was struck while jogging along Central Avenue west of the Vacation Lane intersection at about 3:30 p.m.

The automobile driven by Mercedes Sullinger, 41, of 321 Forrest Ave. in Clermont Harbor was traveling west on Central when the accident occurred, Dorn said.

Collins was rushed to Hancock General Hospital in Bay St. Louis by Mobile Medic, he noted.

Sullinger is charged with driving under the influence and an expired drivers license, Dorn reported.

Other charges may be added, the chief said.

In addition, Hancock County Jail arrest records indicate Sullinger is also charged with speeding and was released on $415 bond Tuesday.

She is scheduled for a Waveland City Court hearing at 6 p.m. March 17, Dorn said.

Mary Perkins, hospital public relations director, Wednesday reported Collins is being held for observation and is suffering contusions, a laceration to the scalp and possible fractures.

Responding to the accident scene were Patrolman Chuck James and Investigator Robert (Poochy) Tartavouille, both of the police department; the Waveland Fire Department; and Mobile Medic.

COLLEEN AND BIG LEPRECHAUN—Colleen Kristin Ling and Grand Marshal Conrad Mauffray will frolic in the Waveland Civic Association's St. Patrick's Day Parade Saturday beginning at 2 p.m. Mauffray and Miss Ling also reigned at the association's annual St. Patrick's Ball last Saturday at the Waveland American Legion Hall. Miss Ling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Ling of Waveland and an Alpha Honor Roll junior at Coast Episcopal High School, was selected as Colleen on the basis of her outstanding scholastic record. Famed clarinetist Pete Fountain and his group as well as Mobile's Friendly Sons of St. Patrick will be among some 69 units expected to participate in Saturday's parade which will follow the traditional route from Elwood Bourgeois Playground east on Central Avenue to Lafitte Street, Lafitte to Beach Boulevard, Beach to Coleman, Coleman to Central and disband. ## Hilda Bourg named United Way chairman

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Hilda Bourg, resident of Diamondhead Community has been named the 1983 United Way of Hancock County chairman, according to J. Norton Haas Sr., president.

A goal of $45,000 was set at a meeting of the directors held Tuesday. L.J. Breaux was the 1982 chairman when $40,000 was raised.

Some 16 agencies are funded by the local United Way which receives funds through payroll deductions, donations, cooperative gifts, fund raising events, and combined federal drives.

Bourg said, "I am very honored on being selected as the campaign chairman. I do not want to be a sitting down chairman."

Conrad Mauffray, executive director, reported on the final of the 1982 campaign saying the goal of $40,000 had been reached.

Mae Beyer, executive secretary, stated less than eight per cent of the budget goes for overhead with "postage and printing" being the greatest expense.

Joyce Lee of Hancock Bank was introduced as a new member to the board of directors by Haas.

A discussion was held on various possibilities of fund raising events and the need of more persons in contacting businesses and merchants urging payroll deductions.

Bourg was born in Baton Rouge, La.

Prescott not guilty of DUI

Melvin A. Prescott of 102 Felicity St., Bay St. Louis was found not guilty of driving under the influence, leaving the scene of an accident and reckless driving in a recent Bay St. Louis City Court session.

Prescott was found guilty of causing property damage, according to Judge Joseph Benvenuti.

Benvenuti said Prescott pleaded not guilty to all of the charges which stemmed from an Oct. 19, 1982 incident in which a motor vehicle owned by Prescott struck a utility pole on North Beach Boulevard causing a power shortage in portions of the city.

Prescott was ordered to pay a $100 fine on the damage charge and to make restitution for the damages to Mississippi Power Company, Benvenuti reported.

Mississippi salt dome possible nuclear dump

Mississippi residents argued against the federal government considering the Richton Salt Dome as a storage site for nuclear waste during a public hearing in New Orleans Monday.

The salt dome being considered as a nuclear waste dump is located 40 miles from Hattiesburg.

Beverly Johnson of Hattiesburg said the decision by the U.S. Department of Energy "should be consistently based on the premise that protection of human health and the environment are overriding factors."

Dr. Harry Hersey of the Mississippi

Board of Health said, "I was struck by the inadequacies of the guidelines from a public health point of view."

Hersey, speaking as a private citizen and doctor, said the federal guidelines for nuclear waste disposal don't specify how environmental and public health goals are to be achieved.

"Mississippians near the Richton Salt Dome are already experiencing anxiety and stress," said Hersey.

"There is increasing feeling that the benefits of the nuclear power industry are not commensurate with the costs and risks involved," Hersey added.

By ELLIS CUEVAS

An Alabama fugitive living in an old bus in BaySide Park was apprehended by Hancock investigators, deputies, and Mississippi Highway Patrol troopers Tuesday, according to Hancock Sheriff Ronald Peterson.

Peterson said, "Thermon Danny Gibson, 26, is being held in the Hancock County jail without bond after his arrest on Tuesday in BaySide Park."

"We received word from the Mobile County Sheriff's office that Gibson was living in a bus in BaySide Park. He had reportedly escaped the Alabama Department of Corrections where he was serving a 25 year sentence for an armed robbery conviction," Peterson added.

Peterson said when apprehended Gibson was in possession of documents identifying him as a Mark Connors.

"Connors was determined to be an assumed name after interrogation, and he has signed extradition papers to return to Alabama," Peterson allowed.

Alabama authorities are scheduled to pick up Gibson within a few days, Peterson said.

City gas rates decreased, water charges increased

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
The Bay St. Louis City Council Tuesday night authorized increasing water rates and lowering natural gas prices to local customers.

Additionally, the council authorized City Clerk Edward Favre to hire an engineering firm to analyze city utility rates to determine if the city is charging customers fairly.

At a recent meeting, the council authorized increasing the monthly sewerage fee $2 for residential customers and $5 more for each commercial customer.

Harry Farve, council president, at the meeting said the two rate hikes and gas price decrease will be implemented in 30 days and reflected in the April bills.

He reported the minimum monthly water rate will increase 75 cents, but the gas rates will decrease about 16 percent monthly.

The city clerk said the 'average' utility customer will pay about $2 more for water and $10-$12 less for gas each month.

The new residential monthly water rates are $5.50 for the first 3,000 gallons (a minimum rate) and $1.25 for every 1,000 gallons used over the minimum amount.

Commercial water rates will be $37.50 minimum for the first 30,000 gallons and 75 cents for every 1,000 gallons used over the base amount.

The new monthly gas rates will impose $13.50 for the first 1,000 cubic feet used and $8 for each 1,000 cubic feet consumed in addition to the minimum.

Regarding a proposed Mississippi Power Co. substation proposed on Sixth Street in the annexed area of Bay St. Louis, City Attorney Joseph Gex reported the utility would have to secure a 'variance' to build the facility in the residentially-zoned area.

He said the company did not realize the area was zoned residential. The attorney reported receiving a petition from local residents opposing the substation.

Gex said he also met with Eaton Lang of Mississippi Power who reported the council would receive a letter stating the utility's reasons for building the facility.

"The power company is a big bad utility, but its looking for public relations as much as it needs the facility," he stated.

Also, the council accepted into its minutes a letter from the State Public Service Commission explaining its regulatory function for power substations.

Mayor Larry Bennett presented and read the letter which states the commission regulates the construction of such facilities, but the city is responsible for substations after completion.

Waveland, North Bay elementary language skill problems aired

By BREARD SNELLINGS
Most of the students at North Bay and Waveland Elementary Schools have a reading and language skills problem, according to a school district reading supervisor.

The supervisor, Mrs. Susan Sonier, presented a report to the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District Monday night, including results of student testing through the Mississippi Educational Assessment Program.

The test scores showed fourth-grade students from the two elementary schools scored below anticipated scores in reading comprehension, spelling, language mechanics, language expression, math computation and reference skills.

Grade six at the two schools scored below the anticipated score in language expression, and grade eight scored below the anticipated score in spelling.

Mrs. Sonier pointed out that there is an ongoing discipline problem at these two schools and a lack of facilities and instructional materials needed to help students which fall above and below the middle-range skills.

"Test scores in the senior high are not as bad, because there are a lot of dropouts in between the junior and senior level," said Mrs. Sonier.

Mrs. Sonier presented the school district with a list of recommendations and needs, and said she recognized the need for budget cuts this past school year, but felt something should be done about the language skills problem before the next school term.

Among her recommendations were better grouping and scheduling for the students, self-contained classrooms for students who are unable to function in a regular classroom but are not eligible for special education classes, available reading materials at the beginning of the school year and more readily available instructional materials for the teachers.

Among the needs, she listed scheduling more teacher work days, allocating enough money to meet the budget request or letting school supply purchasers know of cuts early enough to still plan for some materials, and hiring someone to set up a resource center for organizing and indexing instructional materials already on hand.

Mrs. Sonier also emphasized the need for a pre-school readiness program, and said there are already materials available in the school system for readiness in reading and math.

She said, however, if such a program includes a further budget cutback, it should be tabled until later.

"I don't think we can continue to ask parents to pay for supplementary materials that the students are using," said Mrs. Sonier.

School district president Walter Turcotte told her the district would take up her problems at a later meeting.

In other action, Bay Junior High teachers Judy Barrett, Barbara Jones and Sherry Ponder complained to the school district about noise levels and problems with students' attention span and dropping test scores due to their classrooms being in the gym.

The school district ordered district architect Fred Wagner of Bay St. Louis to proceed with a work estimate study for sound proofing the classrooms.

Wagner also informed the school district that federal regulations required a complete classrooms examination for loose, flaky asbestos material, and that such an examination at the district schools would cost $1,450. Wagner was ordered to proceed with the project.

The problem of a bill for $4,665 for supplementary schoolbooks and supplies for Waveland and North Bay Elementary schools was discussed, and Mrs. Sonier pointed out that the money for the books and supplies was cut out of the budget.

School district business manager Garland Cuevas said the teachers had collected only $687 from the students for the books and supplies.

Wednesday was a big celebration day for our longtime friends Mr. and Mrs. Carl Smith of Bay St. Louis.

The couple celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary with a special dinner given by children and grandchildren.

There are not too many folks who attain such a long and lasting marriage.

Both are still active in our community and the Main Street United Methodist Church. Mr. Smith, the oldest member of the Bay St. Louis Rotary Club, still makes the weekly meetings.

We want to extend our congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Smith on their 65th Wedding Anniversary.

It will be parade time Saturday in Waveland. The Annual St. Patrick's Day Parade sponsored by the Waveland Civic Association will start at 2 p.m.

Conrad Mauffray is the 1983 Grand Marshal for the Irish event which is open to all nationalities.

It is our understanding Pete Fountain's Half-Fast Marchers will also participate in the parade.

It will be the big day for the O'Bourgeois, O'Longo's, O'Ladner's, O'Kidd's, O'Mauffray's, O'Fayards, etc. We know Fountain's group really added to the festivities last year.

We hope to see you at the parade.

Everyone seemed to be enjoying the spring-like weather on Tuesday and Wednesday, and we hope it will continue.

SPECIAL REPORT: Export Equity Act

Achieving equitable treatment for American farm products in foreign markets has been a prime objective for some time.

The importance of exports to the American farmer, indeed to our entire economy, cannot be overstated. Our farmers must export in order to survive.

Mississippi farmers now export over half of their major commodities such as cotton, rice and soybeans, and nationally, the United States sells about $40 billion annually in farm products in overseas markets.

The Senate Agriculture Committee has been drafting legislation based on a bill I earlier introduced to help our farmers better compete in these foreign markets. It is entitled the Export Equity Act, and I believe if we can get it passed into law, it will help us overcome some of the unfair competition now confronting American agricultural exports.

Our farm economy is staggering under a mountain of surpluses in everything from dairy products to wheat, and we must find a reasonable way to help move these surpluses if our farmers are to enjoy improved prices, and stay in production. Basically, our legislation is an export bonus program, relieving some of the burden of our existing Commodity Credit Corporation (CCC) and PL-480 programs, to further develop and expand our foreign agricultural markets.

We must simply give our farmers and the Department of Agriculture the tools they need to reverse the decline in farm exports, and eliminate the surpluses which have depressed prices in recent months.

The legislation seeks to blend "discount" sales and credit into a farm export program as additional incentives for foreign customers to buy more American commodities. It also gives the Secretary of Agriculture added authority to use some of these surpluses for humanitarian aid.

What does all this mean for our economy in general?

It means jobs, jobs for Mississippians and other Americans. Experts tell us that for each billion dollars in agricultural sales abroad, about 25,000 jobs are supported at home, from the farm to the processing plant, the distribution system and export docks where ships are loaded for their overseas journeys. In Mississippi, for example, we have major ports at Gulfport, Vicksburg, Pascagoula, Greenville, Natchez and Rosedale which are capable of exporting farm products. The Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway, which is nearly complete, will open new avenues for future agricultural exports from our part of the country.

Our farmers, who grow everything from cotton to catfish, in order to provide the food and fiber for American households, need these expanded export markets to survive and stay in production. To help them overcome some of the subsidized foreign competition, to remove some of the unfair trade barriers holding out our products, we are seeking passage and implementation of S. 130, our Export Equity Act.

This could be an important trade instrument which would favorably affect the economic development goals of our state and nation. I believe the chances of passage this year are very good.

BE A GOOD CITIZEN:

People tend to litter where litter has already accumulated. Throwing trash from an automobile — be it a glass bottle, a metal container, or paper products — is like saying to someone else: throw yours, it's alright.

Litter is always ugly.

Louis on its main highway. It is illegal to dump trash on private property and we hope some culprits will be caught and forced to pay a fine. All of the residents of Hancock County need to realize there is a need to clean-up our yards, roadways and parking lots.

INSECT STINGS

(Presented as a public service by the Mississippi State Medical Association and this newspaper.)

With the return to outdoor activities this spring comes once again the hazard of bees and wasps.

For most of us the venom of a stinging insect hurts and is annoying, but is not a serious health problem. But the Mississippi State Medical Association reminds that for some, the bee sting can be fatal.

Those are the individuals who are allergic to stings. Insect stings cause more deaths yearly than snake bites. The most common stinging insects are bees, hornets, wasps, yellow jackets, bumble bees and fire ants.

The sting causes pain, swelling, redness, itching and burning. If stung by a honey bee, carefully remove the stinger by gently scraping with a knife blade or finger nail. Wash with soap and water. Place ice wrapped in cloth or cold compresses on the sting area. Soothing lotions such as calamine or a paste of baking soda and a little water are often helpful in relieving discomfort.

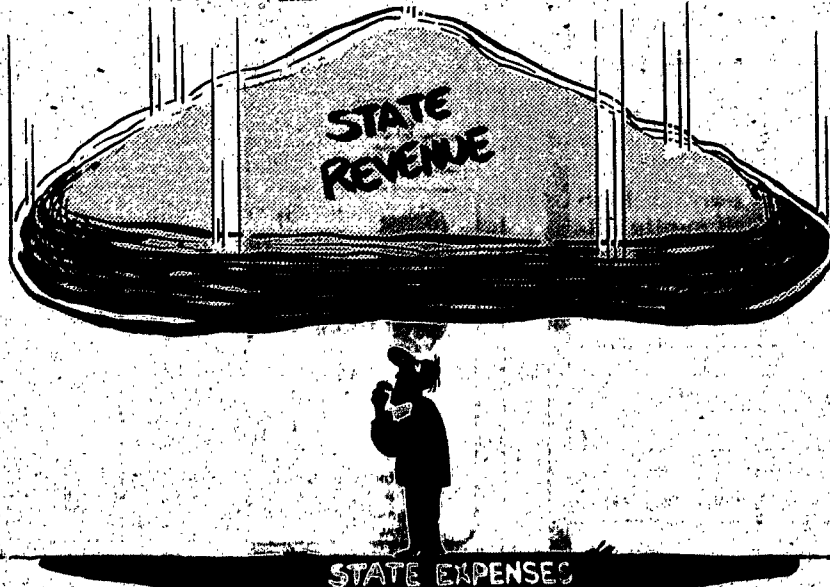

Those allergic to insect stings suffer from a condition known as anaphylactic shock. It can occur sometimes from only one sting if the victim has been stung previously.

Insect sting shock symptoms include severe swelling in other parts of the body, such as around the eyes, lips and tongue. Weakness, coughing or wheezing, severe itching, stomach cramps, nausea and vomiting, anxiety, difficulty in breathing, dizziness, collapse, unconsciousness and hives or rash over the body often follow quickly after a sting.

It is important to open an airway and restore breathing. Some experts suggest using a tourniquet in severe reactions where life might be at stake. Emergency insect sting kits available only by prescription sometimes contain a tourniquet. It can be used only if the sting is on an arm or leg. Don't tie it too tight, and loosen every five minutes until medical help arrives. A watchband or belt can serve as a tourniquet.

Place cold compresses on the sting area. Keep the victim lying down unless he is short of breath. Then let him sit up. Keep victim quiet and comfortable. If a first aid kit for insect stings is available use it according to the directions.

IN CONGRESS

By Cong.
Trent Lott

When the second hand on America's "crime clock" started moving in January, 1983, it ticked for just eight seconds before the year's first burglary was committed.

Twenty seconds later, a car was stolen.

A half-minute after that, a pedestrian was robbed on a big city street. Within the first half hour of the new year, at least one person had been murdered and five women had been forcibly raped.

Violent crime strikes every twenty-four seconds. Crimes against property strike every three seconds.

These statistics are representative in nature, and they are the sort of statistics that keeps many Americans indoors at night behind elaborate security systems, with big locks and big dogs.

The FBI says crime was down in the first six months of 1982 and that the number of households victimized actually dropped by two percent between 1975 and 1981. Even so, the criminal justice system remains overloaded and the people are growing tired of the lack of substantial progress.

A basic problem has been the permissive attitude that developed as court dockets became logjammed. An effective system of criminal justice should emphasize deterrence. Fewer criminals on the streets mean fewer potential victims.

It seems to me that a cohesive approach to fighting crime is essential, an approach which must include the following:

1. Punishment — The major function of prisons should be punishment.

2. Sentencing — Greater use of mandatory sentences, jail terms served consecutively and the death penalty in certain cases may be the best deterrent.

3. Plea bargaining — This process is heavily used by prosecutors and judges to allow a defendant to plead guilty to a lesser charge so that the expense and risk of a trial by jury is avoided. While it may save money, plea bargaining weakens the criminal justice system because it allows a defendant to largely escape the consequences of his actions.

Several bills providing the death penalty in certain cases have been introduced in Congress and I have introduced my legislation which allows only one appeal in cases where a jury returns a verdict of death. The appeal would go automatically to the U.S. Supreme Court, which could decide to hear the appeal or not.

With 86 percent of real-life burglaries going unsolved and prime time television depicting violence in two-thirds of its programming, it's no wonder people are demanding action on the crime issue.

It may take some tough measures, it may take a higher degree of cooperation against the criminal, but it's a fight worth winning.

Economic Council report

Ted Koppel, anchor man for ABC television's popular "Nightline" news program, will be the featured speaker for the Mississippi Economic Council's Annual Membership Meeting on April 7.

The highly acclaimed Koppel will make his address during the membership luncheon at the Holiday Inn Downtown, according to Jolly McCarty, chairman of the Annual Meeting Committee.

"We're pleased to have this outstanding broadcast journalist to speak to our membership," McCarty said. The award-winning Koppel has anchored "Nightline" since March 1980. His role as anchor has helped bring attention to a wide variety of national and international subjects. Before his present assignment, Koppel served as ABC News' chief diplomatic correspondent for 10 years.

In addition to Koppel, announced candidates for Mississippi governor's race are being invited to appear before the MEC membership to discuss issues in the 1983 race. The candidates will be questioned by a panel of Mississippi journalists.

In a morning session, government and education officials will discuss the consolidation of Mississippi schools. The Education Reform Act requires that further consolidation of the state's public school systems be studied.

From Koppel's former post at the State Department, he distinguished himself through award-winning and critically acclaimed reporting. One report examining America's military preparedness drew the Alfred duPont-Columbia University Award.

For his November 5, 1980, post-election coverage, Koppel received an Emmy Award. In May 1981, Koppel was presented the Kappa Tau Alpha Award honoring innovation and excellence in broadcast journalism from New York University's Department of Journalism and Mass Communications.

A native of Lancashire, England, Koppel lived in the United States from 1963 until his first overseas assignment in Vietnam in 1968. He holds a B.A. degree from Syracuse University and an M.A. from Stanford. Both in Journalism.

Currently, he is working on a novel with his friend and colleague, Marvin Kalb of NBC News.

TIMBERLINE

SPRING IN MID-WINTER

Have you noticed? Many of our trees and shrubs have decided winter is over. Because of relatively mild winter weather, many plants have gone into bloom early. Azaleas have been sporadically blooming since Christmas. Many fruit trees such as pears, peaches and cherries are blooming. Of course, here in Mississippi we have many plants which bloom in winter and very early spring regardless of weather. Camellias, for example, put on a show almost all winter long, and this year has been especially nice because the weather has been mild. Red maple is always a show in February with its red buds and seeds contrasting with the bleakness of an otherwise dormant forest.

This is the time for elms to bud out, giving them an orange cast. The elm buds are also an important food source for squirrels because by this time the food stored last fall is likely to be running out. Eastern red buds and flowering dogwoods are already budding out in some places. All this is occurring, and the colorful fruit of the hollies, yaupon and other berry-bearers are still very prevalent.

Many people living in Mississippi miss the change of seasons prevalent in a more northern climate, especially the fall leaf colors and the abrupt budding in spring as snow melts.

But, look at it this way, here in Mississippi we have color—from buds, flowers and fruits—all year round!

County Agent's Notes

by John Smith

SCALE INSECTS

Scale insects attacking fruit trees and ornamental shrubs and trees can cause serious problems for homeowners. Careful examination must be made to control these pests.

Homeowners and growers of apples, pears, peaches and plums should examine their trees this winter for scales. San Jose scale may attack apple, pear, peach and plum trees.

White peach scale may also attack peach and plum trees.

If infestations of scales go unchecked and are allowed to build to heavy infestations, your trees may be killed. These insects remove the sap from any part of the plant, reducing vigor and blemishing fruits.

Scales "attacking" apples, peaches, pears and plums can cause severe damage. The most effective control of these pests is the application of a dormant oil spray during the winter months after leaves have dropped and before buds swell in the spring. Malathion will reduce the scale in its crawler stage during the spring and summer.

Ornamental shrubs and trees may also be attacked by scales. To control heavy infestations on ornamentals, you should carry out growing season and fall or dormant control programs.

For assistance with, or more information about these control programs, call your County Extension Office.

HELP FOR CATTLEMEN Here at the Hancock County Extension Office, we are really excited about a new beef program we will be starting for cattle producers in the county.

The new program is called CHAMP, which stands for Cow Herd Analysis Management Program. The purpose of the program is to help cattle producers improve production and marketing through better management practices.

CHAMP will be started in every county in the state beginning in January. The program organizes and evaluates information for a producer's individual situation. It lets the cattlemen see the strong and weak management practices in his operation.

By taking part in the CHAMP program, a cattleman can receive specific recommendations for improving weak areas. He is also able to compare his cattle operation with the average for the county and for the rest of the state. We think CHAMP will make better use of our natural advantages as beef producing area.

The program is free to all interested cattle producers. All the producer has to do is fill out a form to determine his status in using recommended practices in seven basic areas: breeding, nutrition, pasture management, herd health, marketing, general management and facilities.

We encourage all Hancock County cattle producers to inquire about this program. Complete details are available at the County Extension Office.

The series also features farm news, market analyses, weather forecasts, production tips and notification of upcoming agricultural events. "Farmweek" is co-produced by Mississippi ETV and the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

The report states the council is pursuing the grand jury recommendations in its ongoing work to establish a code of conduct and policy and procedures handbooks, terminating all officers with a prior arrest record, sending personnel to the State Police Academy (as required by law), pursuing better police pay and upgrading 'to a certain extent' department equipment.

However, the council in the report said certain unnamed equipment was not missing and a National Crime Information Network teletype machine at department headquarters was not necessary because the Bay regularly utilizes the NCIC device at the Hancock County Sheriff's Department in Bay St. Louis.

The council's report also commended Police Chief Douglas Williams and termed the department as a 'viable agency.'

Thriffley noted Williams had been hospitalized when the alleged wrongdoings were reported and stated, "For some reason people look at the report as an affront to Chief Williams. He was ill and not on the job."

Mayor Larry Bennett stated he thought the investigation should have been delayed until Williams had recuperated.

Favre replied, "That's water under the bridge."

Seymour said he 'was not completely satisfied' with the report, but it lists improvement efforts by the city are underway.

Williams Wednesday commended Seymour, Seuzeneau and Favre and stated, "I'm glad there are a few good men on the council who stand up for us."

"I feel the council did a good job and am glad the investigation is over with," he said.

He reported Thriffley and Taylor were also involved in forming the report and stated, "...I don't know what they're grumbling about."

Seuzeneau at the Tuesday night meeting requested the report be read to the council and published in its entirety in The Sea Coast Echo.

City Clerk Edward Favre read the report and the Echo as a public service offers the entire unedited report as follows:

CITY COUNCIL REPORT ON THE INVESTIGATION OF THE BAY ST. LOUIS POLICE DEPARTMENT

On Jan. 29, 1982, a report was issued to the Honorable Leslie B. Grant, circuit judge, by the Grand Jury for the January, 1982, term of court.

A section of this report focused on the operation of the Bay St. Louis Police Department.

The Grand Jury noted several problems with the overall operation of the Police Department and made several recommendations to correct these problems.

The final recommendation of the Grand Jury was that the City Council of the City of Bay St. Louis conduct an indepth investigation into the Bay St. Louis Police Department.

On Feb. 2, 1982, at a regular public meeting, the City Council voted to follow through with the recommendations of the Grand Jury and to conduct its own investigation of the Bay St. Louis Police Department.

The following is a report of the findings, conclusions and recommendations of the City Council regarding the investigation of the Police Department.

One of the recommendations of the Grand Jury was the adoption of a "Code of Conduct" Manual. A draft of such a manual is presently being reviewed by the City Council and the City Attorney, and a "conduct manual" should be adopted in the very near future, governing the Police Department.

Another recommendation of the Grand Jury was to remove any regular or reserve officer with a prior arrest record. After a thorough investigation, it was found that no officer presently with the Department had a prior arrest record.

The Grand Jury also recommended that all future applicants meet the requirements of the Minimum Standards Law; that a background investigation be conducted on each applicant; and that all present and future officers be required to complete the Police Training Academy.

Presently, a complete background investigation is being done on each applicant prior to his receiving a commission as a police officer.

All applicants must now meet the requirements of the Minimum Standard Law and must complete the Police Academy within one (1) year, as required by State Statute.

As to reserve officers being required to attend classes or Hancock County Sheriff's training sessions, it is the present policy of the Department that these officers may ride with a regular commissioned officer and also attend the firearms training and in-house training sessions along with the regular officers.

Also, as noted by the Grand Jury, an evidence vault for security and storage of all evidence was needed. This has been constructed for the Police Department by the City.

The last recommendation of the Grand Jury was for the City Council of the City of Bay St. Louis to conduct an indepth investigation into the Bay St. Louis Police Department.

As previously noted, this was begun on Feb. 2, 1982, when the City Council of the City of Bay St. Louis voted to begin an investigation. The City Council met with virtually every member of the Police Department, as well as several former officers and the City Judge, in trying to make as complete a report as possible.

After a thorough investigation of accusations and allegations against personnel of the City Police Department, the City Council finds that all of these accusations and allegations are unfounded and are untrue.

During the investigation, a number of problems regarding personnel were brought to the Council's attention. Among those problems were the following: 1) not enough pay; 2) no job security for the officers; 3) the need for additional patrolmen.

As a recommendation from the City Council, a lay review board should be established to review all personnel problems concerning the Police Department. Also, additional patrolmen will be commissioned and the salaries for the present patrolmen will be upgraded as monies are made available.

Also noted during the investigation were some problems that the Police Department had with equipment. The City Council noted that in some instances the Department did, in fact, have some poor equipment.

This, in recent months, has been upgraded to some extent by purchasing second-hand equipment and new equipment. We realize the fact that probably some equipment is still in poor condition but will be upgraded in the future.

Also, there was mention of a need for an NCIC Machine, which would be available to the Department at all times as they are presently using the Department's machine. It was noted by the Council that the NCIC Machine in the Sheriff's office could be used by our Police Department and that the need for a machine of our own was not critical at this time. It was also mentioned that some equipment was missing. However, this was found to be untrue as all equipment has been accounted for through an actual physical inventory taken of the Department's equipment.

The last area in which the City Council investigated was that of procedural and operational problems within the Police Department. Involved in this were the problems of 1) lack of training; 2) improper handling of evidence and 3) the lack of any written job descriptions, policies, and procedures, etc.

The City Council would recommend that a written policy and procedures manual be adopted outlining the job descriptions and duties of each officer, the proper handling of evidence in all cases, firearms policies and other procedural matters affecting the Police Department.

As far as training is concerned, there should be in-house training for all regular and reserve officers; all new officers and all present officers should attend and complete the Law Enforcement Training Academy in Jackson as soon as possible.

All officers should also be required to attend some regional training programs where the FBI and Highway Patrol come in-house to various local departments and teach various segments of evidence handling, conducting investigations and other training procedures.

In conclusion, the City Council of the City of Bay St. Louis would like to commend Chief Douglas J. Williams for the handling of the Police Department and would like to solicit support and cooperation of the citizens of the City of Bay St. Louis for the Police Department in all aspects of its duties.

The City Council feels that, although there are areas in which the Police Department can be improved, under the circumstances that exist today as to monies available, the Police Department of the City of Bay St. Louis is a viable law enforcement agency and does an outstanding job enforcing the statutes and ordinances of the City of Bay St. Louis, and protecting the citizenry of the City of Bay St. Louis.

present time. There is no clear law for the handling of minor children in divorce cases.

According to Todd, the problem is that very few chancellors are willing to award joint custody. Under Bill 2130, as it stands now, if two people file for joint custody, it will be presumed to be in the best interests of the child to award joint custody, and if one parent objects, the decision would go to the chancellor.

Todd said joint custody wouldn't have to be 50-50. "The father can have the child 10, 20, 30 40 percent, or whatever, of the time, if the chancellor allows it."

The bill, as outlined by Todd, contains the following elements:

-Establish joint custody as being in the best interests of the children.

-Assure children of frequent and continuing care and contact with both parents.

-Establish joint custody as first preference of alternatives in court.

-Assure joint custody as first preference if either parent requests it.

-When the court's recourse is to sole parent custody, require the court's preferential consideration to the parent most likely to cooperatively allow the children's frequent and continuing contact with the noncustodial parent.

-Assure that previous custody decrees may be modified to a decree of joint custody.

-Require that the court state its reasons for declining joint custody.

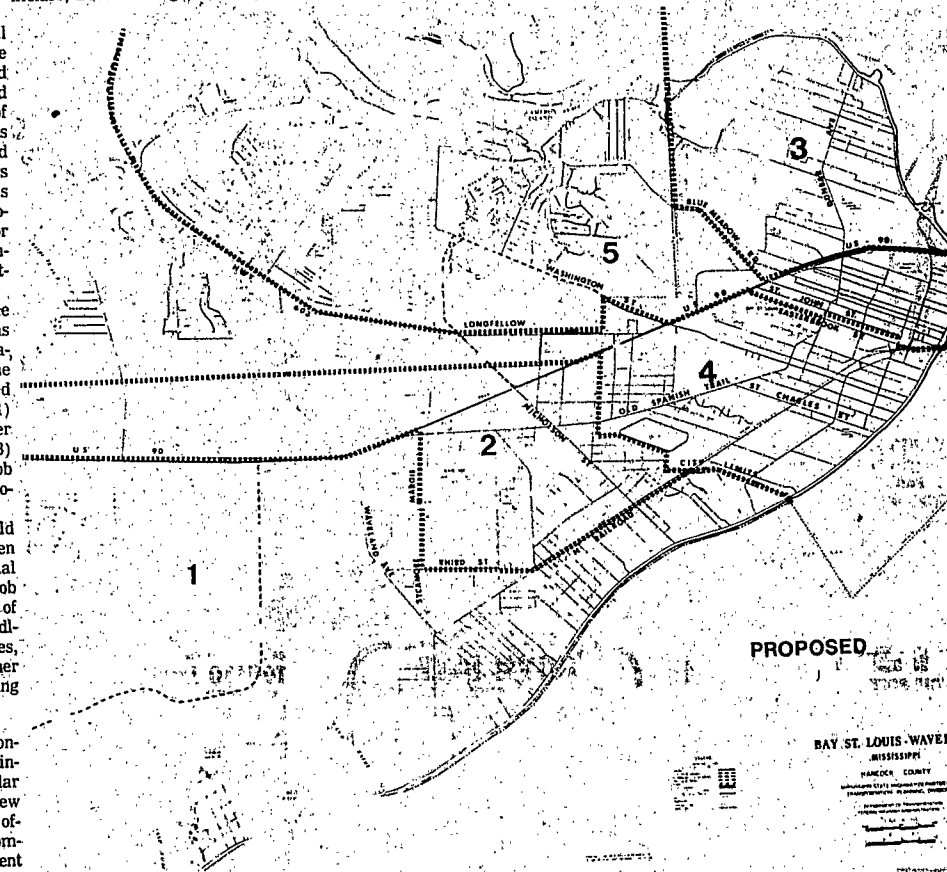

-Enable a court to modify a joint custody decree and require the court to state its reasons.

-Assure parents of both joint physical and joint legal custody within a decree.

-Assure free access to all records pertaining to the children by both parents.

property included in District 4 as well. The Justice Department recommends no more than three percent population deviation from the norm of 4,699, based on a county population total of 24,497, according to the 1980 census. The primary purpose of redistricting is equalization of population based on the 1980 census.

The supervisors are required by federal law to consider minority voting strength, so that new district lines do not dilute that strength.

Under the new plan, District 1 will have a population of 4,944 (1 percent deviation), District 2 will have 4,702 (4 percent deviation), District 3 will have 4,972 (1.5 percent deviation), District 4 will have 5,072 (3.5 percent deviation), and District 5 will have 4,807 (1.9 percent deviation).

Also, the board heard from James DeBlanc, executive director of the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission, and approved the following commission proposals:

-To accept a low bid of $193,075 from Bond Paving, Inc. of Gulfport to expand the existing paved portion of the Stennis International Airport terminal apron.

-To authorize a lease agreement with Bay Aviation, the airport-fixed base operator, for managing a proposed additional hangar building at Stennis.

-To authorize a Gulf Regional Planning Commission update study and resubmission pending application to the Economic Development Administration.

-To authorize a six-month agreement with Mississippi Pumping Service, Inc. to use dock space at Port Bienville in transporting drilling mud.

In other business, John Scafidi, attorney for the County Planning Commission, told the board that a new addition expanding Lot 9 had been added in the Pelican Cove Subdivision Plan, originally approved for Diamondhead by the supervisors.

County Civil Defense Director Bobby Boudin then told the board that the Navy Seabees would not be given authority by the Atlanta-based regional office of the Federal Emergency Management Agency to remove the stranded boats from the Bayou Cadet marsh, since they didn't constitute a health threat or public hazard.

Boudin then said he had requested temporary housing from the state for some seven families left flooded out by the Jan. 20 storm.

He also said he had received 140 applications for Small Business Association loans, and that the SBA office would close Friday if there were no more applications.

County Sheriff Ronald Peterson told the board he had appointed Jan Brameyer and Lana Noonan to the committee to look into drafting an August bond issue to build a new county jail.

Named to the committee by the supervisors were Geraldine Lang by Travica; Roger James and Jerry Heitzmann by Sam Pernicaro; Elmo Street and Olga Jean Moran by A. A. Kellar; Doug Necaise and Victor Frankiewicz by Roger Dale Ladner and Faye Lusich and Alvin Ladner by Bert Courge.

Engineer Lawrence Seal of Broadway and Seal then brought out that road repair work was needed on Heron Road, Kiln-DeLisle Road, River Road and Caesar-Necaise Road.

The dividing line for determining Justice of the Peace Districts was then approved as being Hwy. 53 to Hwy. 603, on down Nicholson Avenue and the Bay-Waveland city limits.

Joint child custody bill returned to State Senate

By BREARD SNELLINGS

A bill that would give Chancery Court judges the power to award joint custody of children to both divorced parents, despite one of the parent's objections, is presently on the Mississippi Senate Calendar for Concurrence.

Senate Bill 2130, which is sponsored by Parents for Fair Divorce Laws, based in Jackson, has passed the Senate once already, but was amended in the House and sent back to the Senate Concurrence Committee.

Should the bill pass concurrence, it would go to Governor William Winter to either be signed into law or vetoed.

John Todd, vice-president of Parents for Fair Divorce Laws, told The Echo, "The word joint custody is not mentioned in state statutes on divorce at the present time. There is no clear law for the handling of minor children in divorce cases."

According to Todd, the problem is that very few chancellors are willing to award joint custody. Under Bill 2130, as it stands now, if two people file for joint custody, it will be presumed to be in the best interests of the child to award joint custody, and if one parent objects, the decision would go to the chancellor.

Manufactured home sales hold steady

"More than one-third of all new single-family homes sold in the U.S. last year were built inside factories and then transported to the home site," Charles McMurtrey of Jackson, president of the Mississippi Manufactured Housing Association (MMHA) reported.

McMurtrey said that industry figures reflect that while sales of new site-built homes fell to their lowest level in nearly two decades, manufactured home sales stayed nearly level with 1981 totals.

Manufactured home builders shipped 238,808 manufactured homes to retail sales locations and permanent sites in 1982, a less than one percent decrease from the 240,313 homes delivered a year ago.

By contrast, the U.S. Department of Commerce recently reported that some 413,000 new site-built homes were sold last year, a 5.3 percent decrease from the 436,000 site-built homes sold in 1981.

The 1982 new site-built home sales totals were the lowest in the 19 years that the Commerce Department has published such figures.

"If you add the two sales figures together," said McMurtrey, "you get a total of 651,808 new single-family homes actually sold in the U.S. last year. Manufactured homes accounted for 36.6 percent of that total, or better than one-third. Of the 238,808 manufactured homes sold during 1982, 78 percent were single-section models and 22 percent were multi-sections—manufactured homes comprised of two or more sections joined permanently together at the home site."

"The 1982 sales data clearly demonstrates the growing importance

Cooking up a storm

By Katy McGuire Caire

If you don't want to be tempted away from your Lenten resolves of "no sweets," stay away from Polindexter Drive in the Pass, or at least from Vera and Dan Sentilles' home... for Vera is really "cooking up a storm of sweets" these days, trying out various recipes she acquired on recent trips.

One of these is an old South standby—Hummingbird Cake. Some say it's named for the bird, others that it's a recipe from the crack train, "The Hummingbird." I can't recall... but it's good! Here's:

HUMMINGBIRD CAKE

3 cups all-purpose flour
2 cups sugar
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
3 eggs, beaten
1 cup vegetable oil
1½ teaspoons vanilla extract

1 (8 oz.) can crushed pineapple, undrained
1 cup chopped pecans
2 cups chopped bananas
Cream cheese frosting
½ cup chopped pecans

Combine flour, sugar, soda, salt and cinnamon in a large mixing bowl. Add the eggs and oil, stirring until the dry ingredients are moistened... but do not beat! Stir in the vanilla, pineapple, one cup of pecans and the bananas.

Spoon the batter into three greased and floured 9-inch round cake pans. Bake at 350° for 25 or 30 minutes or until a wooden pick inserted in the center comes out clean. Cool in the pans for 10 minutes, remove from pans, and cool completely. Spread frosting between layers and on tops and sides of cake. Then sprinkle half cup chopped pecans on top. (Makes one three-layer cake).

For the Cream Cheese Frosting: Combine an 8-oz. package of cream cheese, softened, with a half cup of butter or margarine, also softened, and beat until smooth. Add a 16-oz. package of powdered sugar, sifted, and a teaspoon of vanilla extract, and beat until light and fluffy.

And, For a quick-quick sweet, Vera makes what she whimsically calls "Nightgown Pudding" because you can run into the kitchen in your gown, start the coffee and whip up this dessert before you start the day. Here's:

NIGHTGOWN PUDDING

8 oz. Angle Food Loaf (your own or a mix or straight from the store)

2 packs of Royal Lemon Pudding (3 3/8 oz.)

3 cups milk

8 oz. softened Philadelphia Cream Cheese

12 oz. container Whipped Topping (Cool Whip)

Grated lemon peel, as desired

Add the contents of the lemon pudding mix to the cheese, mixing well. Add the milk, blending with electric hand mixer, and whip till well blended.

Add lemon gratings. Pour the well blended mixture over cake that has been sliced and is lined along the bottom of a pyrex dish 9 x 14 x 2". Spread as much cool whip as desired over the whole business and sprinkle more lemon gratings rather sparsely if desired.

Cover with saran wrap, and store in the refrigerator of freezer for future use... and, as Vera says, "light, lemon light and low in calories!" (Copyright, 1983, Katharine D. M. Caire)

Southern spring enrollment hits record 10,100

The University of Southern Mississippi has set a new spring semester enrollment record of 10,100 students on the Hattiesburg campus.

Growth patterns set in the fall remain constant with the largest areas of enrollment, Business Administration, Liberal Arts, Education and Psychology and Science and Technology, remain the largest areas of study at USM.

According to a report from USM Registrar Danny Montgomery, the student body includes 1,524 freshmen; 1,383 sophomores; 2,316 juniors; 3,402 seniors, 991 master's candidates; 45 specialists; 287 doctoral candidates, and 154 non-degree students.

Undergraduate students total 8,624 and graduate students total 1,475.

County school officials question spending practice

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Two Hancock County School Board members at a Monday night meeting questioned the superintendent of education's handling of school activity funds.

Tommy Shaw, a board member, questioned a purchase of 'books' for Hancock North Central High School from the school's activity fund.

At a previous meeting, Shaw requested the board be provided a detailed list of district expenditures and Monday night sought explanations of several bills in addition to the activity fund docket item.

Terrell Randolph, superintendent of education, explained, "A lot of things in the activity fund are not budgeted for the schools. Lots of times we pay for things out of the activity fund because they are not budgeted items."

Shaw replied, "That's not treating the activity fund justice."

Randolph said the activity fund would be reimbursed for the book purchase.

Shaw stated, "Why couldn't the (school district) office pay for this first?"

The superintendent replied, "Evidently it's something I talked about over the phone and authorized for reimbursement."

Monvel Cuevas, board president, said he 'never did like' reimbursing accounts in that manner either and asked why a purchase order could not initially be issued verbally by telephone.

Randolph replied, "I don't like to give verbal agreements for purchase orders over the phone."

After Cuevas inspected the book bill

he reported the district purchase order number was issued after the items were ordered and stated, "I don't like to reimburse (accounts) at all."

The superintendent cited as an example that the activity fund is utilized to purchase gasoline for drivers education vehicles at HNC and that account is then reimbursed.

He explained the practice avoids officials from driving from HNC to the district offices in Bay St. Louis for a gasoline purchase order number.

Randolph then presented the board detailed financial reports for transportation and cafeteria operations district-wide.

The report lists the district has $62,306 left in transportation for the remainder of the present school year out of a $286,429 annual budget.

Randolph said he estimated the transportation fund will be $22,000 in the red by the end of the school year based on monies needed to pay drivers and mechanics and make fuel purchases.

Transportation expenditures from June through February include $29,695 for parts; $7,090 for tires and tubes; $954 for batteries; $51,640 for gasoline; $10,479 for propane fuel; $36,726 for labor; $13,464 for private transportation contracts; $2,360 for oil; $1,230 for insurance; $499 for bus license plate fees; and $182 for Tommy Carver and Glen Ladner's, both mechanics, travel expenses.

In February alone, the district spent $27,300 for transportation.

Cafeteria income from August through January for various food sales (banquets) totaled $198,611; and U.S. Department of Agriculture reimbursements totaled $339,866.

The district expended $192,492 for food, labor and various expenses during the same period.

In addition, the board voted to be responsible for 'hiring and firing' all non-certified employees excluding district office staff and transportation personnel.

Johnny Banks, a board member, cast the only opposing vote.

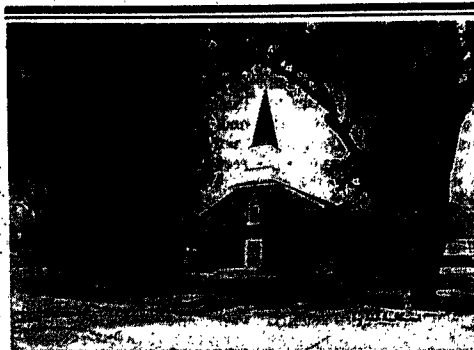

The superintendent in the past has recommended all employees for board approval.

Randolph noted that several years ago the board made the same move, but within a few months again designated the superintendent as the recommending authority.

Cuevas said the new system calls for each school principal to present employee recommendations to the board.

Randolph told the board members he was glad the board voted to lighten his employing responsibility, but warned, "They (possible employees) will start calling board members and hassling the principals... you're asking for trouble."

The superintendent Tuesday said the board will have to modify its action because state law directs that he be the recommending authority for teacher-aides who are also non-certified employees.

ORPHAN FAMILY

The next documentary in the "Frontline" series with Jessica Savitch, "Children of Pride," is the story of Kojo Odo, a 42-year-old single man who adopted 18 orphans.

"Children of Pride" can be seen at 9 p.m. Friday, March 11, on the Mississippi ETV Network.

All of the children who were adopted are handicapped in one way or another, some physically and some simply judged "difficult."

Kojo Odo, a civil rights worker in the South during the '60s, left the movement dedicated to the idea that he would do something as an individual. A social worker by profession, he began to adopt the children nobody else wanted, giving each child a new name and encouraging the potential in each.

The documentary follows the family through the day-to-day routine in their Harlem home and profiles several of the children.

Tragically, through an act of random violence, Kojo Jr., the first of the adopted children, was killed shortly after the filming of "Children of Pride" was completed. The family requested that the film be dedicated to him.

Construction activities for the new plant began in early 1978 and are expected to be completed by mid-1983.

The new ammunition plant, located on 7,100 acres and federal land in the northern portion of NSTL's fee simple lands, will produce an improved design of a conventional 155mm artillery shell.

The Army plant will be operated by Mason Chamberlain Inc., under contract to the Army.

International Paper to sponsor safety programs

The poet Robert Frost called the woods "lovely, dark, and deep," but they can also be dangerous to people who earn their living cutting trees.

Concern for the many independent contractors who provide the forest products industry with its raw material has prompted International Paper Company to develop a wood contractor safety program to help improve working conditions for their contractors and the contractor's employees in Mississippi's forests.

To emphasize IP's commitment to woods safety, the company is requiring — in every cutting contract — that each independent contractor's and subcontractor's employees use protective equipment and clothing during timber harvesting on IP land.

Among the "musts" IP requires of its own employees are ear protection, hard hats, hard-toed foot-wear and saw chaps for saw operators.

"Since IP has aggressively promoted safety within its own organization for years, the company wants to share some of its own safety experience and expertise with the independent contractors it deals with," said J. R. Ward, IP's regional manager of logging and fiber supply.

Ward said everyone involved with timber harvesting and related operations should give safety top priority on the job. "It's a potentially hazardous business," Ward said. "All wood suppliers need to be committed to an effective safety program in order to make the forests a safer place to work."

There are numerous resources already available to contractors and their employees; the IP program is geared to show what is available to independent contractors in the forest products industry.

IP encourages forest product industry suppliers to participate in Certified Timber Harvesters, a program developed by the Mississippi Forestry Association in 1975.

Dexter Evans, an IP forester and chairman of MEA's Certified Timber Harvesters Committee, explained that, to become certified, a contractor not only has to follow safe operating practices, he must also initiate responsible land management techniques.

"Safety is an important part of the harvesting job; through the concerted efforts of companies, independent contractors and associations, safer working conditions will be promoted industry-wide," Evans said.

Companies that insure woods workers are also concerned about safety, and have worked with industry and state forestry associations to help bring about a safer work climate for independent contractors and their employees.

"Overall, I can see the entire industry moving toward a better awareness of how to be safe and, consequently, more productive in the woods," said Rick Hilton, an agent of Georgia Casualty Insurance Company. Georgia Casualty, a firm specializing in insuring woods workers, sends out "loss prevention representatives" twice a year to call on forestry industry contractors and subcontractors to advise them on how to improve safety records.

"We inspect their operations, pass out relevant safety literature, discuss claims, and ultimately develop oral and written recommendations that prove to be helpful to contractors," Hilton said. "The true cost of an accident, in the long run, is often five times greater than the initial cost that is computed — initial costs are truly the tip of the iceberg," Hilton added. Georgia Casualty has also developed two movies — one on chain saw safety and one on protective equipment — to aid in safety training.

To make sure that the safety message is delivered to people in the wood harvesting business, IP will support the sponsoring of safety "get-togethers" throughout the state. These sessions will provide safety equipment demonstrations by safety experts. In addition, participating wood suppliers will be able to buy protective equipment at discount prices from equipment suppliers.

These "get-togethers" will begin throughout the state in early spring and will be open to everyone engaged in the timber harvesting business.

With safer working conditions in the woods, all parties benefit: the individual worker, the independent contractor, and the entire industry.

FOLKLORE SOCIETY

The Mississippi Folklore Society will hold its annual meeting at The University of Mississippi April 8-9 with a wide variety of scholarly presentations and the music of Jimmie Rodgers in the spotlight.

Subjects include Southern superstitions and legends, speech and dialect, place names, arts and crafts, music, folk medicine and children's folklore.

A jam session at the Center for the Study of Southern Culture on Friday evening, April 8, will follow the society's annual banquet and will feature the music of Jimmie Rodgers, the famed country music pioneer from Meridian.

Other related activities include tours of Rowan Oak, the home of William Faulkner, and the Goldstein Folklore Archives.

NERVOUSNESS

This also housewife was referred to our clinic after the efforts of others failed. She related how she was constantly keyed up, with a tense, tight feeling all the time, and even her voice was shaky. She often complained of sweating spells followed by chills and complained of numbness and tingling in her arms and legs. When talking, or trying to read or just being around people made her feel faint and dizzy, her husband finally arranged an appointment for her at our clinic. Our analysis and spinal x-rays proved she had an impingement of the nerves at the base of her head, blocking off some of the nerve current to her body and irritating her nervous system. Within a short time of chiropractic adjustments, her symptoms disappeared and she began to feel and act wonderful again. Their surprise was surpassed only by their gratitude!

Gulf Coast Pepsi Challenge Run set for March 12

The fifth annual Mississippi Gulf Coast Pepsi Challenge 10,000-meter series will be held March 12 at 8 a.m.

Last year, 164 races were held from Honolulu, Hawaii to Brattleboro, Vermont. More than 100,000 runners raked up over 600,000 miles. These totals make the Pepsi Challenge 10,000 Meter Series the largest road racing program in the United States.

The race will begin at the Pepsi-Cola Bottling Co., 4700 Hewes Ave. in Gulfport. The Mississippi Gulf Coast Running Club will again be hosting this year's 10K race.

The 6.2 mile course will be run primarily on streets through the Bayou View Subdivision. The finish line will be located near the starting line to ease transportation problems to and from automobiles. Parking will be available in the Air National Guard parking area which is adjacent to the Pepsi plant.

In addition to the 10K, a One Mile Fun Run has been added this year and will start one hour later at 9 a.m. Registration will be held at the Pepsi Plant in front of the Gulfport Municipal Airport from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. on Friday, March 11 and from 6:30-7:45 a.m. on Saturday, March 12 (race day). The registration fee is $5.

Runners in the 10K and One Mile Fun Run will each receive a Pepsi Challenge 10,000 Meter Series T-shirt. Each runner will also receive a certificate of appreciation for participation in this year's Pepsi Challenge 10,000 Meter Series and One Mile Fun Run.

The top male and female finishers will each receive a trophy, a pair of Converse running shoes, and an all expense paid trip to Tulsa, Oklahoma to participate in the Pepsi Challenge 10,000 Meter Series Regionals on May 14 of this year. The top male and female age group winners in Tulsa will then receive expense-paid trips to the National Championships on July 3 in New York City, with a race course that will include the George Washington Bridge. Participation by national and international running stars has made this race the most competitive 10,000 meter road test in the world.

Tigers win, Rocks split, Pirates lose

Bay High won its baseball season opener Tuesday night, while St. Stanislaus split its first two games and Pass Christian lost its opener.

The Bay Tigers of coach Gayle McRaney defeated Piquette at home, 17-9, with freshman Jeffrey Smith leading the way in both pitching and hitting.

Smith relieved Danny Dwyer in the first inning, with five runs already in, and pitched three-hit ball the rest of the way, allowing four runs, and striking out nine.

At the plate, Smith had three hits, including two triples and a double, and he had seven runs batted in.

Mike Ladner chipped in with three singles for the Tigers.

The St. Stanislaus Rock-a-Chows split their first two games against Ocean Springs, winning the season opener by a count of 4-3, and losing a second game by the score of 5-4.

Gus Aime pitched both games for the Rocks, winning the first and losing the second, as the Ocean Springs pitcher allowed only two hits in the second game, both by Aime.

Pass Christian lost its opener to Harrison Central by a score of 13-7 on Monday.

Turkey season opening March 19

Warm days and budding trees mean spring, but to Mississippi hunters it also signals the time to pursue the most elusive of all game birds: the wild turkey.

Turkey season opens Saturday, March 19, and on that day a host of Mississippi sportsmen will be matching wits with wily gobblers. One of those hunters will be Bill Tomblinson of Vicksburg who is wildlife manager for the Anderson Tully Company. He knows from experience that turkey hunting is a sport that requires preparation, skill and patience.

"Hunting turkeys is different from most other types of hunting," Tomblinson said.

"You sit and listen to the gobble of an approaching bird and hope you get a shot at him before he sees you. Sometimes you wait for hours and never get a shot, but that's part of the sport.

"You don't just walk around until you see a gobbler," Tomblinson said. "A hunter's success depends on his ability to locate and recognize roosting areas or places frequented by the game birds."

Successful turkey hunters must know as much as they can about the habits of the birds.

"Turkeys usually range up and down creeks, streams or rivers," said Dr. Ross "Skip" Shelton, a wildlife specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

"Some authorities believe turkeys move to open areas immediately after a rain to dry off, and hunters should take advantage of this habit by scouting the area they plan to hunt following rains," Shelton said. "They should look for tracks, droppings, scratchings and feathers."

"Turkeys are quite mobile, and it's a good idea to have seen the birds or fresh signs of them just prior to the time you are going to hunt in an area."

Shelton said a camouflage suit with head netting, gloves and non-reflective glasses will reduce the chances of being seen by the keen-eyed birds. He said a camouflaged stool is also helpful in allowing a hunter to sit for hours without moving and will allow him to pivate and swing his gun easier.

Shelton said a wide range of homemade and commercial turkey calls are available.

"The important thing is for the hunter to feel comfortable with the call he uses and practice until he can make acceptable sounds regularly," Shelton said.

"A common mistake of turkey hunters is moving too soon if they have not heard the bird in a while. If your gobbler is approaching, remain perfectly still, or you may scare the bird off. Try to move your gun when the bird's head is behind a tree, stump or ridge. When ready to shoot, aim at the point where the neck joins the shoulder."

Shelton said hunters who have limited time may be interested in the results of a two year study by biologists in South Alabama. The results are:

—Most gobbling occurs when the sky is fair or partly cloudy, when there is dew on the ground, when the wind is calm or blowing gently, or where there has been no rain-fall within the previous 12 hours.

—The period 10 to 20 minutes before sunrise is the most active gobbling time, and most gobbling has ceased one and one-half hours after sunrise.

—Temperature has no effect on gobbling activity.

—Wind velocity over 15 mph directly decreases the amount of gobbling which can be heard and appears to decrease actual gobbling.

—Wind direction has no effect on gobbling.

—Cloud cover directly affects gobbling activity. On cloudy days turkeys usually do not gobble.

USM, Tech in Metro opener

Southern Mississippi's Golden Eagles will start preparations for the Metro Conference Tournament to be held in Cincinnati, March 11-13, and meet Virginia Tech in their opener on Friday.

The Eagles upped their record to 14-13 with a victory over Western Illinois. Guards Curtis Green and Larry Boyd each scored 20 points to pace the Eagles in a previous win over East Tennessee.

Green continues to lead USM in scoring with a 17.1 average and is also the team leader in steals and minutes played. The Memphis, Tenn. resident has recorded 56 steals and logged 943 minutes of playing time (36 per game).

Center Carl Mitchell ranks second on the team in scoring and leads the squad in rebounding. The Dothan, Ala. resident is averaging 12.6 points

The team's third leading scorer is Boyd. He is averaging 9.8 points and also paces the team in assists with 96

The Eagles will be seeded sixth in the upcoming Metro Conference Tournament and will face Virginia Tech in the opening round on Friday at 6 p.m.

THE FISHIN' HOLE

By BREARD SNELLINGS

Spring is just around the corner, which means its almost time for fishing along the beaches from Bayou Cadet to Ocean Springs.

Once the weather starts getting consistent, and the winds and rain die down, the water along the beach will start clearing up, and the fish will start moving in and feeding.

Croakers running 10-12 inches usually start showing up around the middle of March, along with flounders, channel mullet and silver perch.

Croakers like to frequent deep holes in the bay, where the water drops to five-eight feet deep. Best bait is shrimp, which can be bought frozen at this time of year, or cut bait.

Flounders like to frequent drop-offs, where there is some moving water, and they hit best on small moving shad rigs or jigs, or live cacaho minnows if you can get them.

Cacaho minnows can be found in the extensive marsh areas and canals in back of Bay St. Louis and Waveland.

Catching cacaho minnows with a net is risky business, since your castnet gets tangled up with marsh weed, so the best bet is to put down a minnow trap with some broken pieces of crab in it, or else use a small (Number 12-18) hook, and catch them that way.

Croakers, channel mullet, flounder and silver perch can be caught from the shore. If you have a boat, speckled trout are biting in the Louisiana marshes on shad rigs, but redfish are scarce this time of year.

Freshwater fishing is excellent for crappie or sacalait, also called white perch.

The best place to go is the West Pearl River between Slidell and Hickory, where sacalait can be caught on small jigs or live shiners, fishing the river in running water by smaller ditches, or around small cuts.

Roy Baxter of Pearl River Marina in Pearlinton, says there won't be any good fishing in the Pearl River Basin until the rains stop and the waters go down.

According to Baxter, the water is just too high, fast and muddy for any fishing at this time.

Some of the catfishermen are setting trotlines in the rivers, and rod and reel fishing is possible for channel catfish and blue catfish at this time.

Best baits are crawfish, cut bait and live shiners, if you can get them.

Bream and bass fishing in the rivers and lower Pearl River Basin is poor, and will be until the rains stop and the waters recede and clear up.

I've seen a few people dropping crab nets along the seawall and off piers the past few days, but its still a little early to catch crabs in the area.

Usually, the crabs follow the fish in, and that happens as soon as the spring weather starts showing up, probably in a couple of weeks.

First, the schools of anchovies, or glass minnows, silversides and small menhaden come in, then the croakers, trout, flounder, channel mullet, pinfish and silver perch follow them in.

It's possible to find a sheepshead or two by pilings and along seawalls.

A good technique for catching sheepshead is to first scrape the barnacles off a seawall or bunch of pilings, then drop a live fiddler crab bait down among the barnacle pile.

Commercial fishermen are still bringing oysters in by the sack, and say its too soon for crabs. Shrimp season doesn't open for a few weeks.

PRC football team in spring practice

For the past five weeks Pearl River College's football team has been hard at work on the playing field during spring practice and in the weight room.

Wayne Jones, PRC's second year assistant, who is responsible for the offensive and defensive lines, said "since August the Wildcat players have increased tremendously in size and strength."

"The team works out two or three times a week," Jones said. "This comes after many hours of practice on the field."

Jones also said he charted the players progress each month. "We have some very fine athletes here at the River," Jones said. "And to make them even better we believe they must maintain their strength. To do this they must work out as much as possible."

Church League schedule revised

The Bay Area Church Basketball League suffered the loss of a team this past week as SCLC had to withdraw due to a lack of players.

As a result the schedule has been revised, and tonight's games are: 7 p.m. OLG No. 2 vs. Christ Episcopal; 8:00 p.m. St. Paul vs. Baptist; 9:10 p.m. Metli/Lu vs. St. Rose. Next Tuesday's games are: 7 p.m. Christ Episcopal vs. Metli/Lu; 8:00 p.m. OLG No. 2 vs. Baptist; 9:10 p.m. St. Paul vs. Christ Episcopal; St. Rose has an bye, since Christ Episcopal is playing a doubleheader.

He was casting from the bank when the lunker hit the lure. (Echo staff photo by Edgar Perez)

Bay soccer delayed

For the fourth time this season the rains washed out a weekend of soccer. The games will be played on Saturday, March 26 at their originally scheduled times.

There are still exciting races in the Under-8 and Under-12 Divisions for the District Playdown positions, and the weather only serves to heighten the suspense. Due to St. Patrick's Day there will be no League games scheduled this weekend.

The next Board meeting will be held next Wednesday, March 16, at the Lutheran Church of the Pines. The entries in the BASC Logo Contest will be reviewed at that time.

Fisheries watch slated for Coast

The Gulf Coast Research Laboratory has received a contract from the National Marine Fisheries Service for a one-year project titled Coastal Fisheries Monitoring and Assessment, Mississippi Coast. It provides for federal support in the amount of $105,000 and Laboratory support amounting to $35,000.

"This is a continuation, with some modifications, of the current fisheries sampling program the Laboratory has been conducting," stated Dr. Thomas McIlwain, the principal investigator. In anticipation of the contract, the Laboratory had continued monitoring fisheries resources since the end of September. The contract is retroactive to Oct. 1 and extends through next September.

The sampling effort involved, which was redesigned last year, has undergone further streamlining, McIlwain said. "By looking at our eight-year data bank, and statistically analyzing it, we were able to streamline the samplings. We have pared the amount of sampling but are able to maintain the statistical validity of the data bank."

"In addition, we have a new emphasis directed toward looking at adult finfish stocks," McIlwain noted. Adult finfish sampling is conducted around the barrier islands, in Mississippi Sound proper, and in the bays and bayous across the coast, at stations chosen because "we believe they will give representative samples," he added.

"We are particularly interested in the time of spawning and spawning grounds so that we can begin establishing population sizes and mortality rates. That kind of data and information is necessary to making management decisions, such as the opening and closing of seasons, or setting mesh size and hook-and-line limits, if necessary," McIlwain said.

Another job included in the contract is regular sampling of the state oyster reefs, with monthly reports of conditions on the reefs being prepared for the state Bureau of Marine Resources.

Monthly sampling of juvenile species also will continue, with the emphasis being on collecting samples efficiently, analyzing them, and turning the data around and getting it out, McIlwain said.

These monitoring and assessment activities are very labor intensive and they will be carried out by a dozen or more personnel who work in several sections of the Laboratory's division of fisheries research and management.

"The whole idea is to maintain the continuity of our fisheries data base. If you break that continuity, you will have to find ways to compensate for the gaps, so you prefer not to," stated McIlwain.

Fish larvae study going on

Factors influencing the movement of fish larvae into Mississippi Sound through a barrier island pass will be determined by a new research project being conducted by the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory, of Ocean Springs. Drs. Joanne L. Laroche and Sally L. Richardson are co-principal investigators for this work, which is to be completed during calendar year 1983.

"The primary objective of this project is to determine how a number of environmental factors influence movement of fish larvae into Mississippi Sound through Dog Keys Pass," says Laroche. Those factors to be studied are time of day, depth in the water column, geographic location (inside versus outside the pass), and tidal stage. Seasonal changes caused by winds and differences in transport patterns will also be considered, she adds.

There are several secondary objectives of the project that have to do with sampling variability, interactions between larval fish abundance and physical factors, evaluation of the importance of Dog Keys Pass as a spawning site for commercial and forage species, such as sand and speckled seatrouts, and provision of data on portunid crab larvae.

"This information is of utmost value if we are to be able to evaluate the importance of Mississippi Sound in recruitment to sport and commercial fish stocks," comments Dr. Richardson.

"Through this investigation we will also gain new and valuable information on mechanisms of larval fish transport through one of only five primary entrances into the nursery grounds of Mississippi Sound from open Gulf spawning areas," adds Laroche.

This one-year project is being undertaken to complete sample sorting, identification of larvae, and analyses of data obtained during three "field experiments"

Air quality only survey plus

With federal budget cuts threatening the enforcement of environmental laws, the nation's natural resources are struggling to hold their ground, according to seven environmental indicators in the National Wildlife Federation's 1983 Environmental Quality Index.

According to the 15th annual index, resource conditions either remained the same or worsened during 1982. Those that worsened, according to the index, include water resources, soil resources and living space.

The index, published in the National Wildlife Federation's bimonthly publication, National Wildlife, is an analysis of the state of the nation's natural resources.

During 1982, the Endangered Species Act was reauthorized by Congress; lawmakers also passed a major law protecting coastal barrier islands, and overwhelmingly opposed an Interior Department plan to expand energy development and mineral leasing in most wilderness areas.

resources trends represent the collective thinking of the editors and resource experts on the National Wildlife Federation staff.

In the information included in each section is based on personal interviews, news reports and the most recent scientific studies. The judgments on details in the environmental Quality Index include:

• WILDLIFE: Conditions remained the same as in 1981. In the same year that Congress reauthorized a strong Endangered Species Act, the Army Corps of Engineers sought to weaken the laws that protect wetland habitat. Chemical contamination threatened wildlife as scientists found high levels of endrin in waterfowl and upland birds, and PCBs and other potential deadly substances in fish.

• AIR: (Same conditions). In 23 cities, six years of pollution controls have cut by 39 percent the number of days when breathing was unhealthy. In Congress, however, no compromise on the reauthorization of the Clean Air Act has been reached, and battle lines are drawn over the cost of clean air, and whether the federal government should be the regulator. Acid rain, according to scientists, continues to be responsible for killing fish in thousands of lakes, damaging forests and threatening human health, yet appeals to the Reagan Administration for the controls on the emissions that cause it fall on deaf ears.

• WATER: (Worse conditions). Federal funds to build and upgrade sewage treatment plants have been cut, and 37 states report they won't be able to meet the "Clean Water Act's" goal of "fishable and swimmable" waters by 1983. The controversy over ocean dumping continues, and the National Wildlife Federation has sued six municipalities that are dumping contaminated sludge in the Atlantic Ocean.

• LIVING SPACE: (Worse conditions). With the Administration favoring land sales in an attempt to reduce the budget deficit, parkland acquisitions were curtailed drastically in 1982, and development around park boundaries continued to threaten the air and water quality inside those reserves.

• MINERALS: (Same conditions). With home heating oil plentiful at prices holding with the previous year, the Interior Department staged the biggest coal leasing sale ever in the Powder River Basin of Montana and Wyoming, and announced a plan to offer oil and gas leases throughout one billion acres of the outer continental shelf.

• SOIL: (Worse conditions). America is in the midst of an erosion crisis, with fertile topsoil being washed or blown off farmland at the rate of 5.3 million tons a year. In June, however, the Farmland Protection Policy Act went into effect, directing all federal agencies to minimize development on cropland.

A free reprint of the Environmental Quality Index is available from the National Wildlife Federation; additional copies, from 2 to 100, are 35 cents a piece, and 25 cents a piece for more than 100 copies. Write to Educational Services, National Wildlife Federation, 1412 16th St., NW, Washington, D.C. 20036.

FAULKNER DISPLAY

A signed copy of the rarest limited edition of William Faulkner's works, along with numerous manuscripts, medals and other scarce editions, is now on exhibit in the Department of Archives and Special Collections in the John Davis Williams Library at The University of Mississippi.

The displayed copy of "Go Down, Moses and Other Stories" is one of only 100 copies issued.

University Archivist Thomas Verich said the book and other materials will be displayed as a semi-permanent exhibit.

Other rare items displayed include the Nobel Prize-winning author's amusing response to a fan letter, a letter Faulkner wrote authorizing publication of his Delta Council address delivered in Greenville, novels in their original dust jackets, and a facsimile edition of Faulkner's handwritten, hand-illustrated and hand-bound play, "The Marionettes."

The department plans to add material from the Rowan Oak Papers — a treasure trove of Faulkner manuscripts and rough drafts discovered in a Rowan Oak broom closet in 1970 — to the Faulkner exhibit later this year.

Alcalan, Dupont named National Merit finalists

Merit Finalists Alcalan and Dupont

The National Merit Scholarship corporation has named two Merit program finalists from Our Lady's Academy. The two seniors, Joelle Louise Dupont and Socorro Alcalan, have advanced from semi-finalist to finalist standing.

Finalists constitute less than one-half of the top one percent of all graduating seniors in the United States.

Miss Dupont, daughter of Harry and Marilyn Dupont of Lakeshore, has been awarded a full-tuition scholarship to Trinity University in San Antonio, Tex., where she plans to double major in geology and French.

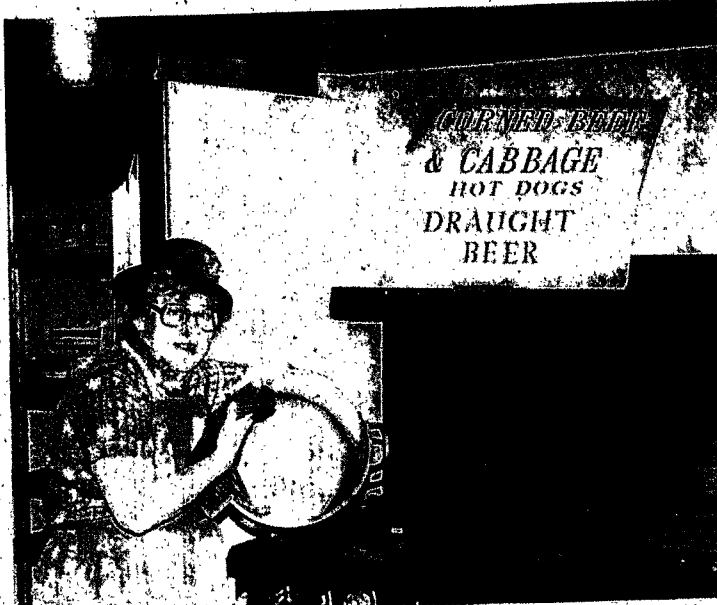

She is president of OLA's Forensics Club and a member of Mu Alpha Theta National Honor Society, the French Honor Society, and Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Youth Organization.

She is an honorary member of the Crescent Athletic Club and is working as a drive-thru/counter-crew person at McDonald's. She is also on the Alpha Honor Roll at OLA.

Miss Alcalan, daughter of Eladio and Dr. Erlinda Alcalan of Waveland, has been accepted by the Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, Md., where she plans to enter the field of medicine.

She is president of the OLA's National Honor Society, vice-president of the Student Council, and secretary of Crescent Athletic Club and OLG CYO.

She is also a member of Mu Alpha Theta, the OLA Forensics Club, the French Honor Society, and is on the Alpha Honor Roll.

TAX SAVINGS IN THE NICK OF TIME!

SAVE TAX DOLLARS AND PROVIDE FOR YOUR RETIREMENT WITH A HANCOCK BANK IRA!

Even as you read this message, time is ticking away toward April 15. But Hancock Bank has a plan that can help you cut the taxes you'll pay this year and provide for your retirement. It's the Hancock Bank Individual Retirement Account, and with it, you can earn interest and defer taxes until your retirement. An individual can set aside up to $2,000, and a working couple can set aside up to $4,000... tax free! And you can do this even if you're covered by another pension plan.

Ask your Hancock representative how an easy-to-open IRA can delay tax day. But hurry... time is running out! And don't forget: right now, your IRA can be eligible for 1982 tax benefits.

Principals Association outlines possible solutions to critical math, science teacher shortages

Math and science education in America's schools is in a state of "disrepair" and must be improved, according to Scott Thomson, executive director, National Association of Secondary School Principals.

"Recent surveys indicate that at the secondary school level 43 states have a shortage of mathematics teachers, 42 states report a shortage of physics teachers, and 37 states report a shortage of chemistry teachers," Thomson points out.

"If this situation continues, students will not be as well prepared for pursuing technical jobs or a mathematics or science major in college," said the spokesman for the principals association which is headquartered in Reston, Va.

Thomson has outlined a four-point solution to the current crisis, focusing on forgivable loans for college students studying for teaching careers in these areas, increased in-service training for current teachers, resources to purchase needed equipment, and greater cooperation and support for schools by business and industry.

He believes legislation should be created that would provide loans to college math and science majors with a forgiveness provision that cancels 25 percent of the loan for each year of teaching in an elementary or secondary school.

"Mathematics and science graduates are foregoing the education profession because starting teacher wages are distastefully below comparable entry-level jobs in industry which require essentially the same skills," Thomson says.

He feels that if teachers were able to save the cost of repaying college loans their earnings early in their careers would be much more comparable to what they could earn in private enterprise.

The second recommendation is to authorize a training program for current math and science instructors so that they would be able to modernize their skills in this rapidly changing field. Such a project would help to increase teachers' skills and assist them in reversing the trend of declining student achievement. In-service program should be designed locally to meet the needs of individual school systems.

Thomson urges that business and industry be encouraged to assist schools in stopping the exodus of talented math and science teachers.

One approach would give tax incentives to businesses that provide summer jobs for math and science teachers. This would supplement the salaries of those teachers while exposing them to the latest developments in their fields.

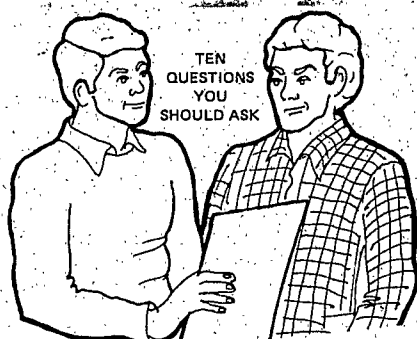

He also suggests tax incentives for businesses which shared their employees, who hold teaching certificates, with local schools on a part-time basis.

Finally, Thomson recommends that legislation enable school administrators to purchase needed equipment, materials, and supplies for mathematics and science classrooms.

"Our nation's labor market is rapidly changing as we become an information society. All sectors of our country must play a part in addressing the challenges of these major changes in the work force, but without a doubt schools will play the most central role. It is in our schools that tomorrow's work force must acquire the skills that will be required in an increasingly technical job market," Thomson says.

How To... By Dave Petzal Editor Mechanix Illustrated

Hire a Contractor Wisely

Sometimes even the most avid do-it-yourselfer has to admit that certain home improvement jobs are beyond his scope. Perhaps because of honest limitations or lack of time, some projects will have to be done by a contractor. It's no disgrace. However, if the project is fairly extensive and costly, there are 10 questions you should ask before hiring a contractor. Gail Anderson, writing in Mechanix Illustrated, lists the following key questions to help assure you of a quality job at a fair price. Ask the prospective contractor:

- *Have you done this kind of project before?
- *How many jobs of this type have you done?
- *Are you licensed?
- *What kind of insurance coverage do you have and may I see the certificates of insurance?
- *What parts of the job must you subcontract and are the subcontractors also licensed and insured?
- *How much will you charge (hourly or by the job), and how much of a down payment do you require?

- *When can you start and when will you finish?
- *May I have the names and phone numbers of three people you've worked for and may I visit these jobs to inspect your work?
- *How much will the total job cost and in what increments do you require payment?

Some perfectly reputable contractors may be reluctant to give you a firm total price because they can't know beforehand what they may encounter. This is valid and if everything else checks out, don't hesitate to do business with them.

Above all, get the essential elements of the deal in writing. This should include a plan or sketch and a list of materials and specifications.

If you're picky, you'll love the Produce Patch. Because WINN-DIXIE produce experts are very selective. They judge produce by color, texture and firmness. But many times, taste is the most important test for selecting nature's best. And our produce experts are connoisseurs of fine fruits and vegetables. Selective? You bet. Because we know you're picky. We wouldn't want it any other way. Harvest Fresh from the Produce Patch.

Draft registration required for federal student aid

The state director of Selective Service, Edgar F. Rapp Jr., has issued a reminder that young men who want to be eligible for federal student benefits must register with Selective Service.

As a result of a law passed by Congress (P.L. 97-252) on Sept. 8, 1982, any man born on or after Jan. 1, 1960 and applying for federal student aid in the coming school years, must present proof of registration to their financial aid officers.

"Men are required to register by law," Rapp said, "if a man does not accept the basic responsibility of a society, he has no claim to the benefits. Some $6.5 billion were made available to students last year and Selective Service is not trying to stop that — we just want to be sure that the individuals, who are given the grants and loans fulfill their obligation to society and comply with the registration law."

Registration can be accomplished at any U.S. Post Office. After approximately 60-90 days, the registrant will receive an acknowledgment letter giving his Selective Service number. This letter will serve as proof of registration when he applies for federal student benefits.

If a person has lost his acknowledgment letter, he may obtain a copy by writing to: Selective Service System, National Headquarters, Washington, D.C. 20435 or contact Edgar F. Rapp Jr., state director, 601-949-6234.

ENCORE — Christopher Walken and Susan Sarandon star in Kurt Vonnegut Jr.'s "Who Am I This Time?" to be rebroadcast on "American Playhouse" at 10 p.m., Friday, March 11, on the Mississippi ETV Network. Originally broadcast during the first season of "American Playhouse" last year, the story features Walken as a shy hardware clerk whose best side comes out when he's on stage as an amateur actor. He is pursued by Susan Sarandon.

NEEDED WASTELANDS — Mississippi has more than 700,000 acres of wetlands with more than 600,000 acres of that land in swamps. Bob Chapin, coordinator of the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service Land Use Center, said these wetlands may look like wasted land to many people but they are necessary to the state's ecology and an important land use. He said wetlands provide habitat for aquatic plants, trees and a wide variety of animals that rely on the forested swamps for food, water and shelter. "One agricultural use, rice production, may alter the appearance of a marsh, but it maintains the area as wetland," Chapin said.
